

Patent Lawsuits Dropped Off Sharply in Mass. Courts Last Year

Boston Business Journal

01.11.2019

Related People:

Erik Paul Belt

Erik Belt, who helped draft the proposed rules, said he remains confident the changes will result in more Massachusetts-based litigation. When working with opposing counsel in a recently filed suit, the scheduling of the case was much more streamlined, he said. "It was so much more efficient," he said. "Word is starting to get around."