

McCarter & English recognized by the Philadelphia Business Journal for Pro Bono Work

Philadelphia Business Journal

04.06.2017

McCarter & English was recognized by the Philadelphia Business Journal at its Faces of Philanthropy Awards for our pro bono work, and ranked among other leading Philadelphia-area law firms based on pro bono hours worked by our Philadelphia and Wilmington attorneys. Philadelphia associate Katelyn Gillece, a member of the Board of Directors for Philadelphia VIP—a Philadelphia pro bono organization that provides legal services for low-income residents and families facing civil legal problems that threaten their basic human needs—accepted the award on the firm's behalf. We were similarly ranked last year.